Innovation Award

How does it feel to be an RICS 2020 finalist?

We are delighted to have been recognized as a finalist in the RICS 2020 awards. Our team has worked exceptionally hard to make this innovation project a success and the recognition has been a real morale booster during this COVID-19 time

Why is it important to recognise achievement in the built environment?

It so important that, as an industry, we continue to evolve and innovate and meet the future needs of our stakeholders. Taking the risk to do something different is important but it is even better when your peers recognize the effort.

Is it an exciting time to be in the construction/infrastructure space?

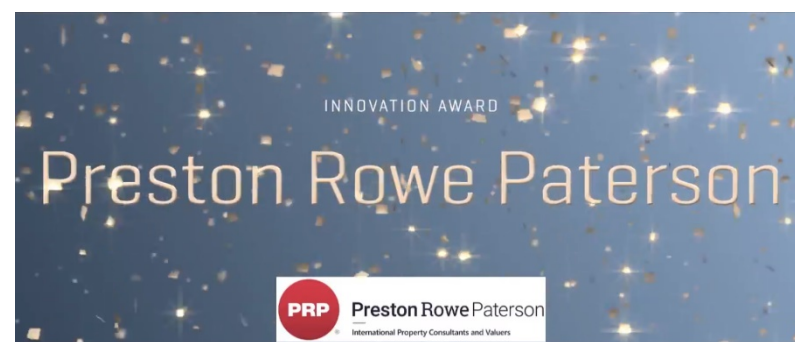

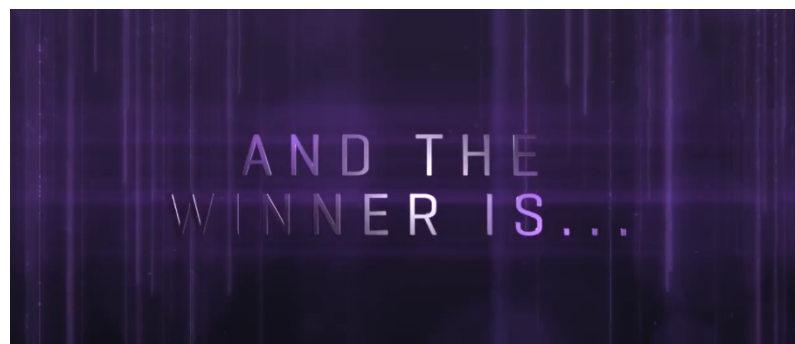

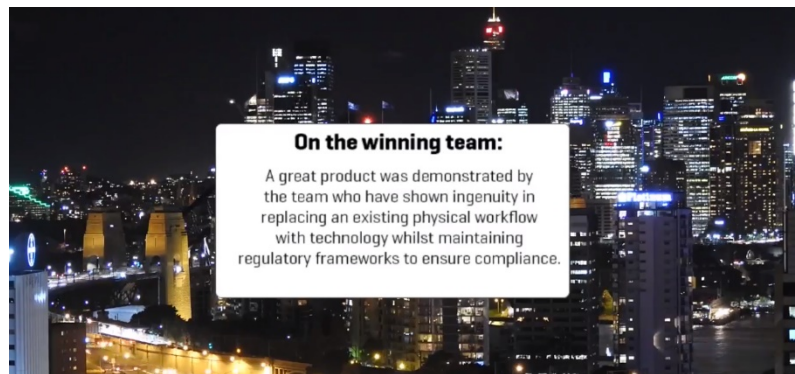

The change that will occur post pandemic is a once in a generation event and, as professionals, we will be leading the sector with advice, analytics, and expertise. That has got to be exciting!

What difference has RICS made in your career?

The resources and professional frameworks have been invaluable to not only gain a local perspective but indeed a global one.

Why have you chosen this category to celebrate your teams' achievement?

Whilst all businesses innovate, we chose this award category because this time innovation came from necessity and our new platform was specifically designed to share with others in the industry to help them through COVID
